Key Ingredients:

Myristoyl pentapeptide-4 (eyelash peptide) can significantly activate keratin gene, enhance its activity, promote the development of dermal papilla, and effectively improve the growth of eyelashes and hair. When used in eyelash liquid and hair care products, the hair can grow longer and become thicker, the eyelashes can grow longer become fuller and curly.

- Stimulates Collagen Production: It activates dermal fibroblasts to help boost the synthesis of collagen and elastin, improving skin firmness and reducing the appearance of fine lines.
- Activates Keratin Genes: It targets hair follicles and epithelial cells to stimulate keratin synthesis, making it a popular active ingredient in eyelash, eyebrow, and hair growth serums.
- High Transdermal Absorption: Because the peptide is bound to myristic acid (a coconut- or nutmeg-derived fatty acid), its lipid solubility and penetration rate through the skin barrier are significantly enhanced.
- Small Molecular Structure: Its low molecular weight allows it to act efficiently as a cellular signaling molecule in topical cosmetic products.
